This class series is for those who are interested in improving their mental health or want to learn about the true nature of reality. Based on the book New Eyes: A Unifying Vision of Science and Spirituality by author and licensed professional counselor Steve Treu, this inspiring class details how to understand who and what we really are from a scientific perspective, including therapeutic suggestions on how to apply this cutting-edge information in our daily lives. Perhaps most importantly, this class has a “unifying” objective to it, helping us see that we truly are all “teammates” in the grand scheme of life whether we know it or not.
